FEASIBILITY AND ADDED VALUE OF A EUROPEAN UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS SCHEME
Miroslav Beblavý and Karolien Lenaerts

This CEPS e-Book assesses the legal and operational feasibility of introducing a European unemployment benefits scheme (EUBS), as well as the economic added value that such a scheme could bring. Some 18 different variants of such a scheme are analysed in terms of their design, legal and operational challenges and economic effects. If an EUBS was selected as a stabilisation mechanism to explore further, this study provides insights on the barriers ahead and different ways to deal with them.

THE FUTURE OF RETAIL FINANCING SERVICES
Sylvain Bouyon

In recent years, the digitalisation of retail financial services — retail payments, current/savings accounts, consumer/housing credit, car insurance, property insurance and health insurance — has accelerated significantly. While policy-makers are gradually creating the necessary conditions to strengthen this digital transformation, there remain numerous policy issues and unanswered questions to resolve.

DIGITAL INFRASTRUCTURE: OVERCOMING THE DIGITAL DIVIDE IN CHINA AND THE EUROPEAN UNION
Shenglin Ben, Romain Bosc, Jinpu Jiao, Wenwei Li, Felice Simonelli and Ruidong Zhang
This study is the result of collaboration among a group of researchers from CEPS and Zhejiang University (ZJU), who decided to team up and analyse the experience of China and the EU in bridging the digital divide. While acknowledging that both China and Europe have undertaken major efforts to reduce socio-economic and geographical disparities by providing network access to ever more citizens, the authors found that investing in physical access alone is not sufficient to enhance inclusion in the information society.

UNLEASHING INNOVATION AND ENTREPRENEURSHIP IN EUROPE: PEOPLE, PLACES AND POLICIES
Jose Manuel Leceta, Andrea Renda, Totti Könnölä and Felice Simonelli
This report sets out the elements for the design of a streamlined and future-proof policy on innovation and entrepreneurship in Europe, with the aim of improving the overall environment for entrepreneurship. Its recommendations are based on a new, multi-dimensional approach to both innovation and entrepreneurship as social phenomena and to the policies that are meant to promote them.

CONSTITUTIONALISING THE SECURITY UNION: EFFECTIVENESS, RULE OF LAW AND RIGHTS ON COUNTERING TERRORISM AND CRIME
Sergio Carrera and Valsamis Mitsilegas
This collective volume offers a multidisciplinary examination of the critical issues and challenges associated with the EU’s initiative to build a Security Union, particularly in relation to common policies adopted at the member state level aimed at countering terrorism and crime. It delves into the EU’s efforts to support cross-border investigations, the exchange of information and international cooperation, taking stock of the effects on freedom and privacy.

MIGRATION VERSUS MOBILITY IN EU EXTERNAL ACTION TOWARDS ASIA: A CLOSER LOOK AT EU RELATIONS WITH CHINA, INDIA, THE PHILIPPINES AND THAILAND
Finding that EU migration policies are still subject to inconsistency, legal uncertainty and discriminatory treatment, scholars call for the creation of new legal pathways.

The contributions to this book showcase the various uses and potential of social science and humanities research in assessing, informing and shaping EU migration policies. Leading scholars and experts have brought together the latest knowledge available to reappraise the added value of the EU in this area. Their reflections and findings point to the need to develop a revised set of EU policy priorities in implementing a new generation of legal pathways for migration.
Europe in the World

THE OBSOLETECE OF THE EUROPEAN NEIGHBOURHOOD POLICY
Steven Blockmans

The idealism that engendered the European Neighbourhood Policy in 2004, later codified in the Lisbon Treaty in 2009, has since been reviewed to adapt to the turbulence that has befallen the EU and its neighbourhood. The ENP is now little more than an elegantly crafted fig leaf that purports to take a soft power approach to the EU’s outer periphery, argues the author, but in effect it inclines more towards Realpolitik.

By prioritising security interests over liberal values in increasingly transactional partnerships, the EU is atomising relations with its neighbouring countries. And without the political will and a strategic vision to guide relations with the neighbours of the EU’s neighbours, the ENP remains in suspended animation.

ASSESSING THE EUROPEAN NEIGHBOURHOOD POLICY: PERSPECTIVES FROM THE LITERATURE
Hrant Kostanyan, Steven Blockmans, Artem Remizov, Linda Slapakova and Guillaume Van der Loo

The European Union faces many challenges and dilemmas in designing and pursuing policies that build stronger partnerships with neighbouring countries based on the values on which the Union is founded. By focusing on the recent literature (since 2011), this book explains the (lack of) effectiveness and coherence of the ENP and identifies where there is consensus among scholars and where perspectives and judgements differ. It also identifies important gaps in the literature where further research is needed.

CEPS is one of Europe’s leading independent think tanks, providing a high-profile and neutral forum for debate among all stakeholders in the EU policy process. A strong in-house research capacity in combination with its extensive network of partner institutes throughout the world enable CEPS to make important contributions to the policy-making process. CEPS research is subdivided into six research areas: Economy & Finance; Regulation & Digital; Energy & Climate Change; Rights & Security; Institutions; and Europe in the World. Its broad orientation allows our researchers to look across sectors and to quickly adapt to changing policy priorities.
